A graduate MBA student earning a grade of less than a C (Q.P. of 2.0) must repeat the course as soon as it is offered and earn a grade of C (Q.P. 2.0) or better. Earning a grade of less than C (Q.P. of 2.0) in a second course will result in dismissal from the MBA program.

A graduate MBA student may apply no more than one course with a grade of less than B- (Q.P. of 2.67) and greater than C- (Q.P. of 1.67) toward graduation. Students earning a grade of less than B- (Q.P. of 2.67) and greater than C- (Q.P. of 1.67) in a second course must repeat the second course if the second course is a core course and earn a grade of B (Q.P. of 3.0) or better, or either repeat it or take a different elective if the second course is an elective course and earn a grade of B (Q.P. of 3.0) or better.

Graduate School policy limits the number of courses that may be repeated to one course with a grade of less than C- (Q.P. of 1.67) and two courses with a grade of less than B- (Q.P. of 2.67) and greater than C- (Q.P. of 1.67).

MBA students must also earn a cumulative Q.P. of 3.0 to graduate from the MBA program.
