Courses for which the PASS/FAIL option is not available

May 1, 2020

As mentioned in the various PASS/FAIL announcements, there are certain courses for which the original letter grade must show on the transcript. In many cases, the reasons for this are tied to accrediting bodies and/or certifications or licensure. Below is a list of courses, separated by college, where the original letter grade must be displayed on the student’s transcript. If there is nothing applicable in a given college, that is noted as well. As always, please consult your advisor or department Chairperson for any questions.

Even if the original letter grade is not required to be displayed on a student’s transcript, please remember that minimum grades in prerequisites and/or progress requirements in a major or program of study still apply even if the student elected to take a PASS or FAIL in that prerequisite. Advisors are able to review the original, archived letter grade to make this determination.
