Commencement

Convocation

August 8, 2020
Please be informed that all candidates for degrees and all honors designated for degrees earned are determined according to the academic record that includes the student's last semester which becomes official once all grades have been submitted and posted. A student's receipt of degree and the declaration of related honors must be confirmed and validated by the final transcript.

The views or opinions expressed by the guest speakers at today's commencement are their own and do not necessarily represent the views or opinions of Bloomsburg University.

Handwritten words on six sheets of lined paper established the Bloomsburg Literary Institute in 1856. Recorded in a Columbia County deed book, the Act to Incorporate the Bloomsburg Literary Institute established “a company for the provision of education, both in the ordinary and higher branches of English, literature and science, and in the ancient and modern languages.”

The newly formed institute grew from an academy that operated with varied success in Bloomsburg since 1839.

The rules of the corporation outlined how the institution’s first trustees would be selected and their terms of service and how new trustees would be elected. It listed the trustees’ specific duties, which included the issuance of stock at $20 per share, the purchase or sale of real estate, and the employment or discharge of teachers. The trustees also would be called upon to adjudicate conflicts between teachers and parents or guardians “and in general exercise such oversight as may tend to the greatest efficiency and usefulness of the school.”

One of the most visible symbols of the university’s past is Carver Hall. The building, named in memory of Henry Carver, principal at the time, was erected in 1867. Today, it is considered the university’s landmark.

Largely through the efforts of J.P. Wickersham, superintendent of public instruction, Bloomsburg Literary Institute became Bloomsburg Literary Institute and State Normal School in 1869. The school continued under this name and structure until 1916 when it was purchased by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and named Bloomsburg State Normal School.

The emphasis at the Normal School changed during the early 1920s from secondary and college preparatory courses for special teachers to full-time teacher education. This new thrust in the curriculum led to the adoption, in May 1927, of the designation Bloomsburg State Teachers College. The institution was authorized to grant a bachelor of science in education, a degree which prepared students for teaching careers in elementary and secondary schools.

Under the administration of Francis B. Haas (1927-1939), great progress was made in the teacher education program, including the addition of a new degree program in business education. Haas left Bloomsburg to accept an appointment as superintendent of public instruction for Pennsylvania, the same post he held from 1925 to 1927 prior to coming to Bloomsburg. Harvey A. Andruss, then dean of instruction and former director of the business education department, served as acting president from 1939 until January 1941, when the school’s trustees unanimously elected him president, a position he held until his retirement in 1969.

During World War II, the United States Navy V-12 Officer Training Program was conducted on the campus, a service now commemorated by the naming of Navy Hall. In 1957, the Division of Special Education was instituted. Major expansions in facilities, faculty, and student body followed. Enrollment rose from 1,743 in 1960 to 8,924 in fall 2018.

In 1960, the school’s name was changed to Bloomsburg State College. Authorization was received shortly thereafter to grant a bachelor of arts for liberal arts programs in the humanities, social sciences, and natural sciences and mathematics. Graduate study leading to a master of education also was inaugurated. In 1968, approval was received for a master of arts; in 1970, for a master of science; in 1976, for a master of business administration; and in 1982, for a master of science in nursing. In 2003 a doctoral program in clinical audiology was approved; and in 2014, a doctor of nursing practice program was added.

Today, Bloomsburg University is a comprehensive institution offering curricula in the liberal arts, business, science and technology, nursing, allied health sciences, and teacher education. Degree programs are offered at the bachelor’s and master’s levels, in addition to doctoral programs in audiology and nursing. The institution’s current title, Bloomsburg University of Pennsylvania, was officially adopted when commonwealth legislation established the fourteen-member State System of Higher Education on July 1, 1983. James H. McCormick, Bloomsburg’s president at the time, became the system’s interim chancellor and later its first permanent chancellor.

In July 2017, Bashar W. Hanna was named the university’s nineteenth president.
Bloomsburg University’s mace made its first appearance at a commencement ceremony in August of 1963. The history of the ceremonial academic mace can be traced back to the fourteenth century when it developed as a composite of two ancient objects, the royal scepter and the battle mace.

Kings used the scepter as a symbol of their power and authority, while warriors wielded the mace as a weapon to prove their strength and superiority on the battlefield.

European universities combined these two symbols into an academic mace or ceremonial staff that demonstrated the authority and right of academic institutions to grant degrees to candidates who had earned that privilege. Colleges and universities in the United States gradually adopted this tradition, and in early 1963 the Dean of Students at Bloomsburg State College, J. Alfred McCauslin, proposed the school adopt one as well. A design for the mace was submitted to Ensko & Co. of New York that March. Maces were traditionally topped with an ornament representing the institution’s history, and in Bloomsburg’s case the symbol chosen was the keystone, the symbol of Pennsylvania.

Academic maces are usually carried by a marshal who precedes the institution’s president in the ceremonial procession.

The university medallion is made of cast bronze and is worn by the president of the university during academic convocations as a symbol of the leadership responsibilities vested in that office.

The medallion, designed and sculpted by E. Richard Bonham of Lewisburg, is circular and includes the name of the university enclosing the shield and other principal elements of the Great Seal of Pennsylvania.

The graceful, unbroken lines of the circle represent the unending process of education. A ship, a plow and sheaves of wheat, symbolizing nourishment and strength derived from both sea and land, appear on the shield, the traditional instrument of protection.

The eagle atop the shield is the symbol of liberty. A stalk of maize and an olive branch curve upward on either side of the shield, representing prosperity and peace, and under the crossed stems is the date of the university’s founding, 1839. Replicas of the medallion have been given to individuals who have performed exemplary service to the university:

The traditional academic regalia worn at commencement exercises is a record of the academic achievement of that individual. Its use originated at English and European universities during the twelfth and thirteenth centuries.

The long gown evolved from the monk’s habit. The hood evolved from the cowl that the monks wore over their heads. Today’s mortarboard can be traced to the skull caps worn by the churchmen.

The colorful hoods designate the degree of the wearer, the subject in which the degree is held, and the institution that awarded the degree. The color of the velvet band on each hood and robe represent a scholar’s field of learning, while the official colors of the school awarding the degree always are shown in the lining of the hood and, sometimes, by the distinctive color of the gown. Bloomsburg University colors are maroon and gold.

As institutions of higher learning were established in America, beginning with Harvard College in 1636, the universities followed the English precedent in which each developed its own version of academic dress. As has been the case with the British universities, there was virtually no conformity from one institution to another and sometimes not even within institutions. College and university administrators, sensing a need for uniformity, convened in 1895 to develop a uniform code of academic regalia. Still in use by most American institutions, the code has been reviewed and revised only twice.

The colors for academic fields established by the American Council on Education include:

The Alumni Association

The Bloomsburg University Alumni Association congratulates today’s graduates, the newest members of the association.

The Alumni Association was formed in 1871 by members of the classes of 1870 and 1871. These graduates wanted to remain connected to their alma mater and preserve and celebrate relationships with classmates, faculty, and staff. Today it provides programs and services to more than 74,000 alumni. Through events and programs, the alumni association fosters relationships that engage alumni in the university’s strategic priorities and philanthropic goals.

While your time as a student at Bloomsburg University has concluded, never forget your alma mater and plan to come back to BU often. As the newest members of the BU Alumni Association, we invite you to become actively engaged alumni and consider supporting future generations of Huskies.

Stay connected by visiting www.bloomu.edu/alumni to subscribe to receive communications from the association, receive monthly alumni e-newsletters, invitations to alumni events and exclusive networking opportunities, and access to career and professional development resources through BU’s online career management system, Handshake.

The alumni webpage also provides information about regional alumni networks and volunteer opportunities to stay engaged with BU.

The alumni association led by 15 volunteer members of the board of directors, representing a wide range of class years, geographic locations, and interests, is here for you. Please reach out any time to share your ideas, provide input, or ask for support. You can visit the Alumni Association on the third floor of the Greenly Center, 50 East Main St. in downtown Bloomsburg or contact us at alum@bloomu.edu or 1-800-526-0254. GO HUSKIES!

HONORARY DOCTORATES

Beginning in 1983, the Council of Trustees of Bloomsburg University granted approval to award honorary degrees by the university. The policy provides that recipients of honorary degrees will be people who have made noteworthy contributions to Bloomsburg University, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, society, or to a particular academic discipline and have demonstrated meritorious achievement or scholarship in the arts and humanities, the social sciences, science and technology, education, the health professions, commerce and trade, or industry.

It further provided that such degrees will be awarded only to those women and men whose lives and works exemplify excellence, service, and integrity. It also is expected that the honorary degree recipient, through deeds and performance, will be an exemplary model for graduates of this and other institutions of higher learning.

Bloomsburg University of Pennsylvania has awarded honorary degrees to:

- Howard F. Fenstermaker, Doctor of Pedagogy

Many graduates have signed the voluntary Bloomsburg University Graduation Pledge. The pledge reads:

“I pledge to consider the social and environmental consequences of choices I make in my personal life and work, and to try to improve these aspects of life in my workplace and community.”

Graduates choose for themselves how to act on this pledge; it is an important promise to themselves and others at this key point in their lives. More than 100 colleges and universities use versions of this pledge. The pledge is sponsored by the American Democracy Project and by Students Organized for Learning through Volunteerism and Employment.

Far above the river winding midst the mountains grand,

Stands our school so dear to students far throughout the land,

Bloomsburg, Bloomsburg, Alma Mater, up on College Hill,

Years to come shall find us ever true to Bloomsburg still!
